

The City of Sydney recognises the cultural and economic benefits that flow from integrating public art into the urban fabric - benefits not just for particular developments, but for the whole city.

---

Promote high quality public art in new development

MEASURING SUCCESS

Success can be judged by achieving:

- an increase in the number and quality of public artworks in new developments
- better integration of new development and public art
- better integration of sustainable art practices in new development
- increased recognition of former industrial and other uses through appropriate reuse of spaces and materials and through interpretation and public art

REVIEW OF PUBLIC ART IN NEW DEVELOPMENT GUIDELINES

James Angus DAY IN DAY OUT 2011, 1 Bligh Street Sydney, Image courtesy of Roslyn Oxley Gallery

The City of Sydney will undertake a comprehensive review of the Public Art in New Development Guidelines to clarify the role of developers, the role of the City and its Public Art Advisory Panel.

Timing	Short term
2030 Directions	Sustainable development, renewal and design A cultural and creative City A lively and engaging City Centre A globally competitive and innovative City
2030 Action	Continue to protect the heritage values of objects, buildings, places and landscapes
City's role	Prepare a report for Council outlining range of options including legal issues
Supporting Partners	Developers City Planning Stakeholders